

THE ATHLETE CIRCLE

Your Free Roadmap to Building the Right Advisory

The Problem You're Facing

You have talent. Ability. Potential. But right now, you're making decisions about agents, NIL deals, contracts, and your financial future with limited guidance.

- Agents are calling — but who's really protecting your interests?
- NIL brands are interested — but the deals are complex (taxes, rights, liability)
- Everyone has opinions — but no one has your full picture
- Bad decisions now = irreversible consequences for your career

The Solution: Your Circle

You need five roles around you. Each person stays in their lane. This is how successful athletes protect themselves.

Role	Job
■■ LAWYER	Reviews contracts. Identifies risk. First call before signing anything.
■ AGENT	Sources opportunities. Negotiates deals. Gets you offers.
■ FINANCIAL ADVISOR	Tax planning. Wealth building. Long-term strategy.
■ TRAINER	Performance & conditioning. Keeps you healthy.
■ MENTOR	Wisdom. Perspective. Guidance (often free).

The Golden Rule: No Mixing Roles

When roles stay separate, you're protected. Agent wants to make the deal. Lawyer wants to slow down and review. Financial advisor wants to optimize tax structure. These are different jobs, and they should be held by different people. Mixing roles = conflicts of interest. Conflicts = bad decisions. Example: If your agent is also your lawyer, they may push you toward a deal that's good for them (more commission) but risky for you. Bad.

What Connor Did Right

Connor Barry was in your position. Agent interest. Brand deals coming. Pressure mounting. He built his Circle: 1. Lawyer first (to review opportunities) 2. Agent second (to source opportunities) 3. Financial advisor (to structure wealth) 4. Trainer (to keep him performing) 5. Mentor (for guidance) Result? He signed from a position of strength, not desperation. Protected. Positioned. Prepared for long-term success.

Your Next Step

You understand the framework now. The question is: How do you actually build it? Get the Circle Kit ($99): ✓ Connor's full case study (real decisions, real outcomes) ✓ Decision framework & templates ✓ How to recruit each role ✓ Direct access to guidance Visit: athletecircle.ai

Your talent opened the door. Your Circle determines what walks through.